

Holocaust Research Guide

Many people are searching for information about relatives who disappeared or were killed during the Holocaust. Others are trying to learn whether any relatives survived the Holocaust, and, if so, where they or their descendants might be living today. This fact sheet provides a basic outline for investigating these topics, with a focus on resources available at the Center for Jewish History (CJH).

Starting Your Search

- Interview family members. Try to identify as precisely as possible the names, birthplaces, and last known whereabouts of the people you would like to trace.
- Search Yad Vashem's Central Database of Shoah Victims' Names at www.yadvashem.org.
- Consult other online resources (see list of web sites below).
- Request a search for information about each individual through the Red Cross Holocaust and War Victims Tracing Center. Learn more about the program at www.nyredcross.org or by calling 1-877-REDCROSS, ext. 2090. In the greater New York area, call the Red Cross' Project Search at 212-875-2252.

Resources at the Center for Jewish History

Refugee case files, wartime censuses, deportation lists, lists of survivors in particular locations, and individual memoirs and testimonies can be found in various CJH collections. Most materials containing the names of individuals or families are organized by geographic location. Further details may be found in CJH's online catalog at <http://catalog.cjh.org> and Holocaust Bibliography at www.cjh.org/shoa/search.php.

Refugee and Immigrant Aid Organizations

The organizations listed below helped Holocaust survivors immigrate to the United States. There are other archival collections with information about survivors, but these have the largest number of records.

German-Jewish Children's Aid

A consortium of American social service agencies established this organization in 1934 to receive and place Jewish refugee children from Nazi Germany. Affiliated with the National Coordinating Committee, the National Refugee Service, and USNA, in 1942 it became the European Jewish Children's Aid. Most case files are restricted because they contain personal information, and may only be viewed with the permission of the Chief Archivist. There is a finding aid to this archival collection.

YIVO Record Group 249

The records series most relevant to genealogical research are:

Series 3. Case Folders, 1939-1952. Alphabetical by city of emigration and then by last name.

Series 4. Closed Cases, 1946-1951. Alphabetical by last name.

Series 5. Reception Reports. Chronological by date of ship arrival (no specific mention of case files).

Series 6. Transportation and Fund Raising, 1934-1944. Includes list of 587 children transported 1939-1941.

Series 7. Identity papers, 1941-1948. Chronological by date of ship arrival, then alphabetical by last name.

Series 8. "Children Abroad" case files, 1945-1949. Alphabetical by last name.

Series 10. Jewish Child Care Association files, 1947-1948. Alphabetical by last name.

United Service for New Americans (USNA)

USNA was created in 1946 through a merger of the National Refugee Service and a department of the National Council of Jewish Women. USNA helped new immigrants, mostly Holocaust survivors, immigrate and integrate into America. In 1954, USNA and the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Association (HIAS) merged into the United HIAS Service. The collection has been microfilmed, and includes ten reels of case files. Most of these are restricted because they contain personal information, and may only be viewed with the permission of the Chief Archivist.

YIVO Record Group 246

Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS) and Related Organizations

Founded in New York City in 1881, HIAS is an international migration and refugee resettlement service, providing translation assistance, financial and legal aid, transportation arrangements, and employment and advocacy services. Over the years HIAS absorbed the functions and records of several related agencies, such as United Service for New Americans (USNA).

YIVO Record Group 245 contains the largest portion of these records, divided into several sub-groups and series.

AJHS Collection I-96 also contains HIAS records. Many of the files have been microfilmed, including Holocaust-era records. As with other similar collections, most case files are restricted because they contain personal information, and may only be viewed with the permission of the Chief Archivist.

Yizkor Books

Yizkor books, which memorialize Eastern European Jewish communities, were typically created by landsmanshaftn (societies of immigrants from the same town) after the Holocaust. Usually written in Hebrew or Yiddish, most Yizkor books were compiled by ordinary people who remembered life in their hometown, not by professional writers, editors, or historians. Because the production of Yizkor Books was a grassroots phenomenon, the books vary in their usefulness for family history research. Most, however, have at least some focus on families and individuals, and contain many names and information about family relationships. Many also contain necrologies, or lists of Holocaust victims, from one or more towns. Yizkor books convey the culture and feeling of Jewish life in Eastern Europe before the Holocaust through personal narratives, photographs, maps, and drawings. For additional historical background, see:

From a Ruined Garden: The Memorial Books of Polish Jewry, edited and translated by Jack Kugelmass and Jonathan Boyarin (Indiana U. Press, 1998). A scholarly introduction to the genre and translations of selections from over sixty memorial books.

The partner collections at the Center for Jewish History include hundreds of Yizkor books. They can also be found at the New York Public Library, the Jewish Theological Seminary Library, the Yeshiva University Library, Yad Vashem, and many other Jewish libraries. To locate specific Yizkor books, see:
