

CJH-Fordham University Research Fellowship

Fordham University's Center for Jewish Studies and the Center for Jewish History offer a joint short-term research fellowship in Jewish Studies for scholars outside the New York City metropolitan area whose research focuses on Jewish-Christian relations and who wish to conduct research based on materials housed at the Center for Jewish History and Fordham University.

The fellow is expected to spend at least a month at the two host institutions, but may stay as long as five months. The fellow's stay must coincide with either the fall or spring Fordham University academic semesters. The stipend for this fellowship is $5,000. The fellow will receive affiliation with Fordham University, and will be required to offer a faculty seminar, and a public lecture, which would be a joint event of Fordham and CJH with alternate venues. The fellow is also expected to participate in scholarly seminars and other meetings at the Center for Jewish History and Fordham University.

The CJH-Fordham Research Fellowship in Jewish-Christian Relations is made possible by funds from the Center for Jewish History, the Eugene Shvidler Gift Fund at Fordham University, and additional gift funds to Jewish Studies at Fordham University.

Eligibility

- Open to scholars from outside the New York metropolitan area engaged in advanced doctoral and post-doctoral research (the implication is that independent scholars will have to have Ph.Ds.).

Requirements for Application

- Cover letter stating area of interest, knowledge of relevant languages, and how the project relates to the fellowship topic.

- Curriculum Vitae, including contact information, education, publications, scholarly and/or museum activities, teaching experience, and any other relevant work experience
- Research proposal of no more than four pages double-spaced, including specific reference to the collections at the Center and/or Fordham University, clearly stated goals for research during the period of the fellowship, and identifying scholars at both institutions with whom you plan to liaise.
- A one-page bibliography of important secondary sources for the project.
- Three letters of recommendation, which address the significance of the candidate's work for his or her field, as well as the candidate's ability to fulfill the proposed work. Please ensure that your application indicates the names and contact information of those writing letters of recommendation on your behalf. Letters of recommendation should be sent under separate cover – preferably by email or dossier service – to the address below. Please submit application materials 1-4 by email as one continuous PDF if possible.
